Program Overview

How can you, as the leader of your organization, improve its performance, results, and long-term viability? This is a question that you wrestle with constantly. The answer starts with you. You represent the ceiling for your organization. What are you doing to raise your ceiling as a leader and better leverage yourself?

Start by participating in this enlightening, practical workshop. Join your peers and Tim Shepelak, owner of The Growth Coach, to discover specific changes that will work for you and your organization.

“We must become the change we want to see.” – Gandhi

Take a strategic timeout, step back, look in the mirror, and discover:

- The most impactful key to improved performance
- Practical changes that you can begin to implement immediately
- The path to better long-term viability
- Some of the traps to avoid along the way

Give yourself, and your organization, the best chance to succeed in meeting its mission and vision, and sustaining its long-term viability.
