Home Depot Helps ReSource Build Stronger Non-Profits

In June, national partner The Home Depot visited ReSource to see first-hand how their generous product donations are making a huge difference for hundreds of area charities. In fact, in the past year alone, more than 250 agencies have benefited from their contributions

"The Home Depot and The Home Depot Foundation are proud to partner with ReSource," says Kelly Caffarelli, president of The Home Depot Foundation. "Through ReSource's excellent work, hundreds of other non-profit organizations have access to much needed building materials."

And the program is having a big impact on The Home Depot, too. "Donating product provides an additional avenue for The Home Depot to practice social and environmental responsibility," Caffarelli explains. "It gives our associates an additional sense of pride because they know that usable products are being kept out of landfills and used to rebuild nearby neighborhoods and improve lives."

What an outstanding partnership!

Help Us Help Non-Profits

Through collaborative relationships with corporate donors, ReSource continues to be the non-profit for non-profits. Last year alone, ReSource helped 451 local non-profits by providing access to quality, affordable merchandise and educational programming.

We need your help! Since everything in our warehouse is donated to us, our average annual member spends $540 with an estimated annual savings of $3,595. If your corporation is wondering what to do with their excess office supplies then tell them to donate to ReSource! Go green by keeping those supplies out of landfills while helping local non-profits. Another wonderful way to stay involved with ReSource is by volunteering your time by helping out in the office, in the warehouse, or by joining one of our committee or board teams. Visit us at www.resourceweb.org to learn more about how you can donate!

"ReSource continues to provide cost savings on additional office furniture and supplies, which is a tremendous help as we stretch our grant dollars in tight economic times," explains Tammy Weidinger, Brighton Center, Inc.

Board Members Donate Time

Ten years ago Greg Lamping, CPA of Rudler & Associates, Inc. visited ReSource to learn more about how ReSource was the non-profit for non-profits. After visiting the warehouse and meeting with Executive Director Molly Lohr, Greg signed on as a Board member to help with tax filings.

As a non-profit, ReSource relies on the commitment of volunteers to keep our business growing. "I wanted to be part of an organization where you could see the impact that your efforts brought," says Greg. "When you see the numbers as to how many people ReSource touches, it's pretty amazing. I've just been fortunate enough to be able to participate in their

How Home Depot is Helping

"Being a member of ReSource and having access to The Home Depot supplies, we have seen increased production. We were able to sell eleven quality homes this year at the best price because of the savings we make at ReSource." Bonnie Blankenship, Cincinnati Housing Partners.

success."

Because of the time and effort that our Board members put into our organization, ReSource has helped 451 local non-profits. With dedicated members like Greg we are able to focus on building stronger non-profits. "Most non-profits don't have the staff or manpower to handle all the issues they face on a day to day basis. My volunteering allows ReSource to further its role as a provider to non-profits in the community," explains Greg.
